NEW VOLUMES The award-winning Dictionary of Literary Biography series is dedicated to making literature and its creators accessible to students, researchers and interested readers while satisfying the demanding standards of librarians, teachers and scholars. The series systematically presents career biographies of writers from all eras and genres through volumes dedicated to specific types of literature and time periods. These detailed entries are written and signed by academic experts in the field and include bibliographies and illustrations.

Volumes 329-332 of this acclaimed series are devoted to coverage of Nobel Prize Laureates. These volumes explore in detail the lives and careers of some of the most notable names in literature, including Samuel Beckett, Saul Bellow, Pearl S. Buck, T. S. Eliot, William Faulkner, Nadine Gordimer, Hermann Hesse, Yasunari Kawabata, Sinclair Lewis, Toni Morrison, Pablo Neruda, Bertrand Russell, Nelly Sachs, John Steinbeck and many others. In addition, many entries include presentation speeches from the Swedish Academy, banquet speeches by the recipients, autobiographical statements and press releases.

The four-volume Nobel Prize Laureates in Literature is also available in digital eBook format through the Gale Virtual Reference Library (no special readers or hardware required). In addition to providing a core collection of essential information on key 20th-century authors for an electronic literature collection, these volumes in eBook format allow for unlimited simultaneous use and 24/7 access.
